This Superstar or Diva card can be conditioned by lowering the unwanted Super Star or Diva cards of any rarity level in XP. In the lower left corner of each map, the levels of the map are represented by a vertical bar. The bar shows the current level (top number), the total amount of the map (lower number), and the current number of XP at that point. The maximum level of a card can increase depending on the rarity and pro level. Rising values would increase the basic statistics of the map, which would also improve the rating. If you are actually in use in one of the types, you cannot use cards to train other players. If a card is classified as in use, you may need to delete it from your decks before it can teach you. Another way to update the cards is called mixing. Mix. If you have two of the same cards (name and rarity), you will merge them to create a better map that is a pro variant of that map. You can merge cards of any unusual amount and both cards will be lost and replaced by Edition Pro. The ultimate goal of creating a Pro version of a map is to get it as powerful as possible, and you can only do so by fully preparing two players. When these two fully trained cards are combined a Perfect Pro is formed. Pro cards are golden stars, while pro cards that were nuptled before mixing are silver stars. Once you have a Perfect Pro, maybe even better, it's just as capable as a card from a rare level above. So your Perfect Rarity could topple a Super Rare, your Perfect Super Rare could topple an Ultra Rare, so on. On. On.
